DURANGO FELL TO CALLES' MEN THIS MORNING

Rebels Fled as Loyal Mexican Cavalry Approached City

BULLETIN

Torreon, Coahuila, Mexico, Mar. 15—(AP)—Revolutionary forces concentrated here have no intention of evacuating Torreon in the face of the reported advance of Mexican government armies. General Jose Gonzalo Escobar, rebel commander-in-chief, declared today in a statement to The Associated Press.

BULLETIN

Mexico City, Mar. 15—(AP)—Col. Ricardo Tapia, chief of the presidential staff, announced at noon today that cavalry constituting the advance guard of General Calles' army occupied Durango this morning.

General Calles himself was expected to reach the city by mid-day to establish headquarters in preparation for a march on Torreon, the rebel stronghold, upon which five federal columns are now converging.

BULLETIN

Washington, March 15—(AP)—The State Department has submitted to President Hoover a suggested policy to be pursued with respect to Mexican rebels who cross the border into this country. Announcement of the details of the policy was left to the White House by the Department.

Mexico City, Mar. 15—(AP)—Forces of General Calles were within 20 miles of the city of Durango, capital of the state of that name today, and battle for its possession was imminent.

A government communique said that the city was held by a small force of "fanatical elements." The communique quoted General Calles as advising President Emilio Portes Gil that he intended to take Durango and then proceed to Torreon.

The federal generalissimo said it was his hope "not to let a single insurgent escape."

"I fear however," he said, "that the insubordinate may take flight to the north, something which I am trying to avoid by all means."

Capture of Durango will open another rail avenue to Torreon for the federal forces but there was in the government announcements indication of a feeling that Durango may be more difficult to take than was heretofore supposed. The city has about 40,000 population, and like Torreon, splendid natural mountain fortifications.

Rebels Entrenched At Torreon, 150 miles northeast of Durango, the rebels are reported to be strongly entrenched and in some circles there is less hope of evacuation of the city without a battle than has been the case heretofore.

Flight northward to Chihuahua offers the rebel General J. Gonzalo Escobar and his forces an opportunity for possible escape into the United States; to remain in the city they court a decisive battle with the federal forces with which their cause must either rise or fall.

The federal offensive against the city took the form today of five separate columns moving in its direction. Three of these came from the east under the commands of Generals Andres Almazan, Saturno Cedillo and Lazaro Cardenas. A fourth offensive body, part of the force of General Calles, operated along the railroad between Canitas, Zacatecas and Torreon. The fifth, under the command of General Calles himself, was engaged in the attack on Durango, prior to a movement against Torreon from the southwest.

REBELS ADVANCING Juarez, Chihuahua, Mex., March 15—(AP)—Rebel forces led by their Commander-in-Chief, General Jose Gonzalo Escobar, today were reported on the march south from Torreon to meet the federal army advancing on the city.

Defensive movements of the revolutionists could not be learned but it was reported that General Escobar planned to place his troops in strategic places in an attempt to stop the government forces before they reached Torreon.

Meanwhile, it was learned there that many Americans are stranded in Torreon, unable to obtain money to leave because the banks are closed. They have no means of communication with outside points, it was reported.

A number of Americans from Torreon arrived here last night by train. They said there was much military activity in the town but that business continued as usual.

Hoaxed Mother of Alleged Pal for Gift Shower

Chicago, March 15.—(AP)—Mrs. Katie Raskin's son had been missing several years when, in 1926, she advertised, seeking trace of him. She received an answer from the Michigan State Prison at Jackson.

"I knew your son," said the letter. "We were pals, but he disappeared. It would do me good, imprisoned here, to receive letters from my old friend's mother."

Mrs. Raskin wrote. She sent gifts and money. Last year one of the letters from Jackson carried a "confession."

"I am not Sylvester Simmons," the convict wrote. "I am your son. But please don't come to see me. I cannot face you yet. I am so ashamed, and you have been so good."

The gifts became a shower. Nothing was too good for her son.

Yesterday she could wait no longer. She paid a surprise visit to the prison. The convict was ushered into her presence.

She looked, then turned her head. "Take him away, please take him away," she cried.

For Sylvester Simmons was Sylvester Simmons. For three years he had hoaxed her, for the money and presents she sent.

"Please don't punish him," Mrs. Raskin told the warden.

"Why did I do it?" said Sylvester Simmons. "Oh, just for a joke."

ABANDON SEARCH FOR CHILD LOST IN NEB. BLIZZARD

Posses are Unable to Get Through Snow: Six-Year-Old is Lost

Gordon, Neb., Mar. 15—(AP)—The snow-swept sand hill region north of here today holds the fate of six-year-old Melvin Reeves.

After nearly sixty hours of relentless effort search for the boy, who was lost in a blinding blizzard when he went to hunt for a lost mitten, was abandoned last night. With abandonment of the search the last day of hope of finding the boy alive faded.

Hunt for the lad will be renewed when the snow melts.

An army of several hundred searchers, including 200 Indians from the Pine Ridge Reservation and Kyle, S. D., found themselves virtually snow bound, unable to push through the drifts, many of which are eight feet deep.

Parents Near Collapse. Mr. and Mrs. William Reeves, parents of the lost boy, were near collapse.

Mr. Reeves had searched night and day, without food or sleep hoping to find his boy alive. Further search would be futile, he told the posse men.

The Indians joined the hunt yesterday, coming in wagons, trucks and some by horseback. Familiar with this country as no white man is, they were unable to make any progress through the huge drifts north of the Reeves ranch. A few of them plowed their way through for about (Continued on page 2)

RIVER HIGHER THAN ANY TIME DURING SPRING

At Level With Public Parking Area East of C. C. Bldg.

Rock river here today presented the worst condition since the clearing of the stream of ice. East of the Galena avenue bridge the river was in many places at a level with the parking space and in some places was washing away the gravel driveway.

Water was running into the basement of the Illinois Northern Utilities Company hydro plant at the foot of Ottawa avenue but had caused no damage and was not hampering the operation of the plant, it was reported at the company's offices.

A raise of sixtenths of a foot was recorded since noon yesterday and at noon the water was still rising, a two-tenths of a foot raise being recorded since midnight. The hydro plant was operating today with an output of about ten per cent of its average development. With a continued raise, it was feared that the water would reach the cement strip on the east parking place. On the north side of the river, the water was washing away some of the bank fill between the bridge and the dam.

West of the bridge on the north side, sewage water spread over the high school athletic field this morning and the stage was continuing to rise. On the Ogleside county side of the Grand Detour bridge, many acres of land were under water.

EX-SERVICE MAN LEAPS TO DEATH IN CHICAGO HOTEL

Davenport Man Under Hallucination Father Had Suicided

Chicago, Mar. 15—(AP)—Hugo Ferdinand Lindholm, of Davenport, Iowa, identified by papers found on his body, leaped to death today from the seventh floor of the Pershing Hotel on the south side.

Lindholm, whose address was given in the papers as 767 East Sixth Street, left a note stating he wanted to die to vindicate his honor as a soldier and atone for the recent suicide of his father, which he believed he had caused indirectly.

The father, who was recently resigned from the Davenport city council after serving for more than 25 years, was found to be still alive however. According to information from Davenport, the father could give no clue to the reason for his son's suicide, but said he had been acting queerly during the past month. The younger Lindholm came to Chicago last Thursday, his father said, expecting to consult an attorney regarding a pension matter.

The note left by Lindholm in the hotel room said he had been accused falsely of having shot himself in France during the World War in order to be invalided out of the front lines. He said he no longer could endure those memories, and said he had decided to end it all after learning his father had "jumped in the river" on his account. Authorities believed the man must have been temporarily deranged. He was about 35 years old. His body was found in an alley by a passerby.

Plan Drastic Move to Clear up Court Dockets in Chicago

Chicago, March 15—(AP)—A drastic stroke to clear the Cook county criminal docket was contemplated by the county today. It called for the concentration of the full strength of the courts on criminal cases, and the abandonment of all civil and divorce hearings until the criminal calendar is cleared.

The plan, as discussed by a joint committee of the Circuit and Superior courts, yesterday, is this: Suspend the hearing of civil cases in Cook county for an indefinite period.

Use all the 44 judges of the two courts exclusively for the hearing of criminal cases.

The judges were to meet today to decide definitely whether such a step, described as without precedent in English law, should be taken.

There are 1800 indictments pending. Additional indictments are being returned much more rapidly than the courts are able to handle them.

OUSTED PASTOR, KIN OF A DIXON WOMAN, A SUICIDE

Rev. T. A. Mills, Chicago, Was Second Cousin of Mrs. L. W. Miller

The Rev. Thornton Anthony Mills, of Chicago, second cousin of Mrs. L. W. Miller of Dixon, modernist, who tried some years ago to bring hoboism and radicals within the walls of his Gold Coast church, the New England Congregational, and who lost his church because of it, died yesterday in Jackson Park hospital, a victim of suicide by veronal poisoning.

He believed in democracy within the church; his church was taken from him. He preached violently against divorce; his wife divorced him. He adored his children; they were given by law into his wife's custody. His eldest son died.

Such is the story that his second wife, Mrs. Lois Mills, gave yesterday as the obvious explanation of why her husband killed himself after two attempts during the last week in their apartment.

Married 14 Months

Lois Mills was formerly Lois Hobson, loyal church secretary, who refused to spy on the pastor when his congregation, wishing to find evidence for his ejection, was said to have asked her to do so. She has been married to him just 14 months, and for six of them she has had to seek employment to supplement the meager funds brought in by his lecturing, she related.

A week ago today she found her husband unconscious, but after receiving medical attention from Dr. W. C. McGregor he rallied. On Monday night Mrs. Mills again found him unconscious and called the doctor. Poison, they discovered, was responsible both times. Wednesday morning pneumonia set in to complicate the condition, and they removed him by ambulance to the hospital, where he died yesterday.

Blame Church Trouble. That Mills never recovered from being ousted from his north side church four years ago, and from the break with his family which followed is the story told also by his friends. He believed that the membership of his wealthy church needed augmenting, and he saw a field of service among hoboism. He felt that they could be brought into the church and taught. These views he put into practice, to the distaste and alarm of certain influential members of his congregation.

Immediately after his resignation, his wife, Ruth Tichnor Mills, began proceedings for divorce through her lawyer, Clarence Darrow, and received the custody of their three children. The two of them still living are now with her in Rockford, Ill.

Turned to Lecturing. After his ouster, Mills attempted to earn a living by lecturing. His income, however, was "not enough to keep himself and a wife," according to Ben Reitman, leader of hobos, who was Mills' good friend.

HUGHES VISITOR AT WHITE HOUSE FOR CONFERENCE

Is Regarded as Chief Unofficial Advisor of President

Washington, Mar. 15—(AP)—Charles Evans Hughes, for many years an associate of President Hoover, in the Harding and Coolidge cabinets and more recently an active figure in his political campaign, was an overnight guest of the Executive at the White House.

Since the campaign, Mr. Hughes has come to be regarded as a close "unofficial adviser" of the Hoover administration, and it is assumed that his visit gave the President an opportunity to talk over with him several subjects which have occupied a considerable amount of his attention since his inauguration.

One of these problems, the study of federal law enforcement and court procedure has to do with a field in which Mr. Hughes has long been a prominent figure as jurist and lawyer.

This is a subject which is being given more and more attention by the President as he approaches the task of selecting his law enforcement commission.

Another problem on which Mr. Hoover is assumed to have sought the advice of Mr. Hughes is that of American adherence to the World Court under the new "Root-Hurst arrangement" worked out at Geneva to straighten out the differences between the Senate and the League of Nations Council over the question of advisory opinions.

The Department of Commerce estimates the average American family today has more than a third more purchasing power than it had in 1914.

THIEF'S THREAT TO SHOOT BABY GOT VALUABLES

But He Ran Into Open Arms of Detectives On His Get-away

Chicago, March 15.—(AP)—Terrifying the family by threatening to shoot the baby as it lay sleeping in its crib, a burglar last night robbed Max Schwartz, a real estate dealer, of $1,700 in jewels and cash. The thief, who gave his name as Albert Planko, was captured by detectives ten minutes after the burglary.

Schwartz was awakened by the gleam of a flash light in his face. The burglar stood over him with a drawn pistol. When Schwartz said he had no valuables, the burglar walked to the baby's crib and pulled the trigger of his gun, it clicked against an empty chamber. "There are two empty chambers, and four loaded," the robber said, "think fast."

Schwartz produced his valuables and the burglar fled. He climbed into a cab outside just as a detective squad drove past. The cab was halted and Planko found crouching in the rear seat. In his pockets were the valuables and a pistol with two empty chambers.

SUPERVISORS TO FIGHT SUIT OF REYNOLDS WIRE

Vote $1,000 to Support the Board of Review in Assessment Suit

The county supervisors in their closing session yesterday afternoon unanimously voted the appropriation of a sum of $1,000 to be used in defending the suit brought by the Reynolds Wire Company of this city against the Lee County Board of Review.

Chairman Carl C. Straw who completed his term, not only as presiding official of the body but as the representative from Palmyra township, and last year Chairman of the Board of Review addressed the board explaining the action which had been brought by the Reynolds Wire Company against the Board of Review members.

He explained that the action against the Board of Review charged that body with making fraudulent assessments against the wire company. In a more detailed explanation, Chairman Straw explained that certain records which the Board of Review had sought in order to gather such information as they had desired had been denied them and he added that the public interests should be protected to the fullest measure by the board of supervisors.

The chairman further urged the appointment of a special committee by the incoming chairman whose duty it would be to bring about greater efficiency on the part of the Board of Review.

Reviews Past Year. "I believe that the board of supervisors of Lee county have acted in the best interests of the taxpayers and have not only insisted but have practiced the strictest economy. Huge payrolls in former Sheriff's terms have been cut down to a minimum and that office now pays a return to the county; other changes and alterations have been made which have been for the protection of the county funds. Around us we find the counties that are broke and the taxing conditions are very bad, and in my opinion, Lee county is on that way. I fully realize that the board of supervisors are conducting the county's business on an economical basis, but it is time that some curtailment measure be taken."

"I speak as an individual who has made observations while a member of this board, and who has studied (Continued on page 2)

MISSISSIPPI IS HIGHER BUT NOT DANGEROUSLY SO

Most of Lesser Streams of Valley are Slowly Receding Now

Chicago, March 15.—(AP)—The flood menace had shifted today from its northern tributaries to the Mississippi river itself.

Most of the lesser streams were getting back to normal after a three days rampage, but reports of water seeping through levees and a threatened break had spread consternation among some of those living near the Mississippi.

Many communities in Nebraska, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa and Illinois were still suffering today the effects of the spring freshets of the last few wdays, but unless rains set in, the tributaries were not expected to cause much further trouble.

The Mississippi, on the other hand, was threatening to break through a levee on the Illinois side, north of Burlington, Ia. Inhabitants of Gulfport, a village of 100, have moved to higher ground while large crews attempted to reinforce the levee. Water was dribbling through holes, apparently made by muskrats.

Many Vacate Homes. The Little Minnesota left its banks yesterday and forced persons living near Brown's Valley, in western Minnesota, to vacate their homes.

Conditions had improved last night at Mason City, Ia., where more than 100 basements were flooded and where several families had been forced to move. Several hundred acres of land were flooded near Burlington when levee on the Skunk river broke. Several cottages were swept off their foundations and rural schools were suspended.

While eastern Nebraska and South Dakota were suffering floods, the western sections of those states experienced one of the season's worst blizzards. Rapid City, S. D., reported traffic paralyzed by the snow.

LEVEES ARE INTACT

Memphis, Tenn., March 15—(AP)—With a new rise moving down the Mississippi river and indication of a gauge of 50 feet at Cairo by Sunday, river followers today predicted the crest will be reached at Memphis by the middle of next week.

Meteorologist F. W. Brist delayed his crest prediction because of the uncertainty of rainfall; conditions throughout the upper and central valleys. Indications were that the river would go beyond 30 feet, he said. The local stage today was more than two feet above the flood level.

Reassurances of U. S. Army engineers that the levee system is in good shape throughout the central valley and able to take care of 45 feet of water found protected areas unalarmed over the situation. Levee boards, however, have instituted 24 hour patrols on all dykes.

NO DANGER IMMINENT

St. Louis, March 15—(AP)—The Mississippi, Missouri and Illinois rivers are rising steadily but no dangerous flood condition is imminent in those valleys unless additional heavy rains occur. The United States Weather Bureau reported today after a careful survey of river stages and drainage areas.

The report said the Illinois river is above flood stage and will rise slowly for about four days, but no serious damage is anticipated.

The Missouri river is rising more rapidly. The crest, the bureau forecast says, will reach Kansas City on Saturday. The stream will go close to bankful stages, but unless moderate or heavy rains occur there will be no flooding except where the banks are low.

All along its course from St. Paul to the Gulf the Mississippi was rising steadily today but was not threatening. The following stages were forecast for the vicinity of St. Louis: Grafton, Ill., 19 feet Tuesday, one foot above flood stage; Alton, Ill., 21 feet Tuesday, flood stage; St. Louis, 25 feet Thursday, two feet below flood stage. If any heavy rains occur in the river's drainage area in the next few days, these stages will be exceeded, the bureau reported.

ROCKFORD HIGH WATER

Rockford, Ill., March 15—(AP)—The Peconia and Sugar rivers a day continued to rise, isolating large sections of farming country. A half mile of the Grant Highway between Rockford and Freeport is under nearly two feet of water. Grand creek and the Kishwaukee river has covered a portion of Camp Grant Highway south of the camp to a depth of seven feet. Farm buildings in the vicinity of Rockford are a "breasted." The high stage of the Rock river has hampered the operations of several Rockford factories.

AGED WOMAN VERY LOW

Mrs. Susan Cook, who has been very ill for the past few days, does not improve. Mrs. Catherine Smith of Chicago arrived in the city to see Mrs. Cook.

OFFICES WERE CLOSED

Offices in the city hall were closed this morning about 9 o'clock for the remainder of the day. A break in the boiler of the heating plant left the city building without heat and work was started at once to make the repairs, but the offices became so uncomfortable that they were closed until the plant is again in working order.

SOME ROADS IMPASSABLE

The "frost going out" throughout the county has caused some roads to be closed by highway commissioners and others, particularly the dirt roads are impassable. Some of the gravel roads are beginning to develop dangerous spots and it is anticipated that the order restricting these highways to limited tonnage may be necessary before many days.

"TINK" ANDRES STRICKEN

Charles F. Andres, one of the caretakers at the court house, where he has served for the past nine years, was stricken with paralysis this morning at 8:30 while performing his duties. He was taken immediately to his home, 314 East Chamberlain street where a physician attended him. Reports at noon indicated that his condition was considered very serious, his entire right side being affected.

Barbara, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jason Miller, fell at a Girl Scout meeting and broke her arm yesterday. She had been skating on roller skates all day and taking the falls as they came, and at the Scout meeting was skipping about with some of the little girls, when she fell in such a position as to break her arm. Barbara is bearing the pain like a good soldier.

IOWANS RELEASED

Bennett Peters and D. S. Barber of near Muscatine, Iowa, who were sent to jail yesterday in default of fines of $250 and costs each, were released late yesterday afternoon. Friends from Chicago came to Dixon and paid the fines and costs in both cases and the pair were released. The two Iowans were arrested by State Highway Police Robert Card Wednesday afternoon east of Franklin Grove.

CAESAR'S DEATH

Today is the anniversary of one of the most famous events of ancient history—the assassination of Julius Caesar in the Roman Senate.

Historians say that Caesar had a premonition of disaster on the morning of March 15, 44 B. C., and did not intend to go to the Senate. The conspirators, however, sent Brutus, Caesar's closest friend, to urge him. Caesar shook off his depression, after being reassured by Brutus, and started from the house. In the hall, his statue fell from its pedestal and shattered.

Outside the door, an acquaintance handed him a scroll. On it was written a list of all the conspirators. Caesar thought it was a petition and placed it with his other papers.

Once inside the Senate chamber Caesar was the victim of his good fellowship. Senators took advantage of his affability by regular daggers drawn from under Senatorial togas.

There was one which Caesar, dying, is said to have resented particularly—it was wielded by Brutus, his friend.

Males at University

Can't Talk to Coeds

Detroit, Mar. 15—(AP)—The campus of the University of Detroit was stirred today by an announcement by the president, the Rev. Fr. John P. McNichols, that the 50 coeds enrolled in the university would be expelled if they were detected conversing with any of the 2,000 male students on the university grounds.

The ban on conversation was defended vigorously by John S. Malley, associate editor of the Varsity News, student paper. Malley's statement said: "The president's dictum is the greatest insult to come to U. of D. in years. The coeds waylay and harass the male students. They destroy the studious and scholarly atmosphere of the college with their blarneyings."

x x x is the greatest single step forward in the history of education."

A coed reply was "one reason Malley hates girls is because he can't dance. He's asked me to teach him how. He can't dance and the girls can't be annoyed with him."

Cicero Will Supply

Chicago Shamrocks

Chicago, March 15—(AP)—Chicago's shamrocks this year come from Cicero, Ill., and they are grown from seed obtained in Germany. As though that were not sad enough commentary on an Irish institution, the owner of the largest greenhouse devoted to growing shamrocks for Chicago's St. Patrick's Day is Joseph Kohout, who does not claim to be Irish.

A few Irish-American societies have obtained genuine "old sod" shamrock, but Cicero plans to supply the bulk of the March 17 trade.

DURANGO FELL

TO CALLES' MEN

THIS MORNING

at a meeting in the Mexican Con-sulate at El Paso, Tex., reports said.

From rebel sources here came the charge that Mexican federal government agents were recruiting men from the Mexican section of El Paso for service with the federal army.

AWAIT NACO BATTLE

Naco, Sonora, Mexico, March 15—(AP)—American correspondents today were still awaiting the expected battle of Naco. To all appearances an encounter between General Augustino Olachea's 1200 Indian federally fortified here, and General Fausto Topete, reported to be advancing up the town from Nogales with 1000 rebels, was imminent, but they have learned that "manana" (tomorrow) is a slogan of Mexican military as well as civil life.

At Agua Prieta, to the east, General Yucupicio still held the town with about 500 Mayo and Yaqui Indians, who at first were thought to be rebels, later became federalists, and today apparently were of uncertain status as far as the revolution is concerned.

General Francisco Manzo was reported to be en route to Mazatlan to take charge of rebel troops near the city. Rebel headquarters at Nogales said a total of 2000 men would figure in the attack upon Naco.

In Lower California inhabitants of several small southern villages were reported to have "gone rebel," in the north 300 Mexican farmers were reported to have joined the revolutionary cause at Ensenada, and to be advancing with the border town of Tijuana as their objective. This report, which originated in Nogales, was unconfirmed in Lower California, where it was denied that federal troops had been withdrawn from San Luis, Sonora.

ORDER WAR MATERIALS.

Washington, March 15—(AP)— Large amounts of war materials, including tear gas, arms and ammunition have been ordered from American manufacturers by the Mexican government.

The orders have been placed through the Mexican embassy which has requested the State Department to issue permits to enable shipment of the material to cross the border.

Some additional war munitions are to be provided by the American government from its surplus stocks, but all of the tear gas is to be obtained from private concerns.

Income Taxes Must be Filed by Night

Washington, Mar. 15—(AP)—The heavy flows of internal revenue offices throughout the country today faced the annual last minute rush of thousands of the 4,000,000 persons who must file income tax returns before midnight tonight.

At the same time, they were called upon to receive the last returns of nearly 500,000 corporations, whose taxes are expected to surpass those of last year despite a reduction of 11-2 per cent in the rate they must pay.

Of the corporations filing returns,
a little more than one-third are estimated to have received sufficient incomes last year to put them in the taxable group.

More than 4,200,000 individuals who must have their returns in the hands of the collectors or in the mails before midnight, 1,700,000 will not have to pay anything because their incomes were below the taxable limits.

Secretary Mellon expects the returns to show that the Treasury will finish the fiscal year next June with a comfortable surplus on hand despite that a deficit has been threatened.

COMMUNION

Too tired to rest, too weary now to sleep.
Across the west I watch the shadows creep,
Too sad to weep.

Who has not had this moment in the years,
A time too sad to be a time for tears,
Too dark for fears?

There comes a day when human hearts conceal
Too much to say, too much to quite reveal
How much we feel.

Speech is the balm of those who suffer least
There is a calm a thousandfold increased
When words have ceased.

There is a power that lifts our souls again,
There is an hour we stand apart from men—
But near God then.

It was voted to donate $50 of this amount to the church.

After the business meeting a pleasant social hour was enjoyed by all.

"The Judge: 'Case dismissed.'"

MENU for the FAMILY

By NEA Service
Climate, age and occupation are the influencing factors which should control our daily diet.

During the winter months the body has craved foods that would supply heat and the foods that do this are the starches, sugars and fats. A diet that is made up of these foods and meat without vegetables would prove inefficient and provide opportunity for disease.

Although we may have used plenty of vegetables all winter we must keep on using them while we add fresh fruits for dessert in place of pudding.

It's vitally essential that we keep in our "ration" both fresh fruits and vegetables as well as milk. This means adults as well as children. While the amount of milk required for adults is less than that for children a pint a day should be calculated for grown-ups. This can be used in cooking.

Fruits and vegetables are bulky and not concentrated foods. To keep "fit" we must have some material that will give the digestive tract its much needed exercise. The French have called spinach "the broom of the stomach" and in the last few years we have learned that other vegetables can be substituted for spinach to good effect if this much lauded vegetable is personally objectionable.

Vegetables and fruits are mineral-rich foods and have a distinctly tonic-like effect. It seems most interesting to know that even an iron tonic taken as medicine cannot do the good work that the iron rich foods can do. Provided of course that the body has not been starved and actual illness is the result.

Perhaps a list of these foods so rich in iron will be convenient to have at hand to refresh our memories: spinach, cabbage, lettuce, asparagus, string-beans, celery, radishes, raisins, prunes, dates, olives, lean beef, oatmeal, eggs and whole wheat.

Vegetables and fruits keep the blood non-acid. In other words, it's wise to keep the blood as alkaline as possible by using enough fruits and vegetables to convert the effect of acids and cereals which leave an acid ash when burned in the body. Try to include fresh fruit in some form in two meals a day and use at least two vegetables as well as a salad in two meals.

Grape Fruit and Cabbage Salad
Two cups shredded cabbage, 1 large grape fruit 1-2 cup seeded raisins, 4 tablespoons salad oil, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1-2 teaspoon salt, paprika, lettuce.

Let cabbage stand in cold water for thirty minutes. Drain and chill. Remove sections of grape fruit from rind and skin. Sprinkle with sugar and oil and let stand on ice for 30 minutes. Drain and add to cabbage. Plump raisins in boiling water. Drain and dry between towels. Add salt to oil and grapefruit juice and pour over cabbage and grapefruit sections. Arrange on lettuce, sprinkle with raisins and dot with paprika.

Mojica in Clinton Friday, May 3rd.

(From Wednesday's Clinton Herald)

May 3 is the announced date for the last concert in the Civic Music association series. This date falls on Friday and will bring the celebrated tenor of the Chicago Opera company in a colorful recital for the latter half of the program is to be sung in costume. Attendance at this concert is for holders of membership tickets only and their out of town guests, the latter to pay the usual admission fee.

Mojica will also sing on May 8th at Ottawa, Ill.

Monday following the membership drive will open for the following year and on May 6, 7, 8, and 9 people of Clinton and trading territory may become members of the association. This year Clinton had the best rounded program of any of the cities in this vicinity and even better things are assured with increased membership.

All members of last year are considered members this year, unless a formal letter of resignation is sent to the secretary, Miss Ernel Kelsey, but all must meet the financial obligation during the four days of the drive.

This week of May 6 will also bring the annual meeting of the association, to which all members including those who wish to become new members, election of directors and the directors will in turn elect their officers. The year will end without a deficit, that much is assured.

St. James Aid Society in Meeting

The St. James Ladies Aid met at the home of Mrs. Randall Green Wednesday, March 6. Mandana Green and Mrs. Rosbrook assisting. The meeting was opened with the hymn, "Rock of Ages," Scripture reading by the president, followed by prayer by Rev. H. J. Fischer.

The roll was called, and the minutes of the preceding meeting read. The treasurer gave her report showing a total of $222.84 on hand. Dues for February amounted to $12.40. No bills were presented.

The social calendar for 1929 was arranged. Mrs. Moore and James Reed thanked for flowers. The motion was carried to hold a bazaar the coming fall. Each member was asked to donate fancy work for the bazaar. The sewing committee was appointed: Mrs. Topper and Mrs. Ream; flower committee, Mrs. Lindeman and Mrs. Miller; Chicken supper committee, Mrs. Lehman, Mrs. Kramer, Mrs. Anna Bothe, Mrs. Whitebread, Mrs. McCracken, Mandana Green, Mrs. Patterson and Mrs. Carr. Mrs. Bahn was appointed chairman of the program committee. The business meeting adjourned and the program followed consisting of a solo by Mrs. Rosbrook and solo by Mrs. Topper.

BLUE AND PURPLE BAG WOVEN FOR CLUBWOMAN—

Knoxville, Tenn.—(AP)—Miss Edna McCarter, of Gatlinburg, who once wore a dress and presented it to Mrs. Cooledge, has woven a bag of blue and purple for Mrs. John F. Sippel, president of the general federation of women's clubs.

The bag will be used to carry a gavel of natural rhododendron wood presented to Mrs. Sippel by Mrs. Edith Susang, Tennessee State club president. The gavel was made by Wiley Oakley, a native of the Smoky mountains. It will be used by Mrs. Sippel as she travels from state to state presiding over important club meetings.

Mrs. Sippel is the recipient of many unique gifts. One is a lucky stone given her on a visit to Virginia. These small stones, each bearing a natural cross, are found in the Blue Ridge mountains. The legend is that when the fairies heard the news of Christ's crucifixion they wept and as their tears fell they were crystallized into pebbles upon each of which was formed a cross.

Brief Resume of Messer Exhibit To be Shown Next Week

In the exhibition of Teall Messer's paintings to be held in Downing Hall next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, there will be thirty-seven canvases and three lithographs. All these pictures with the exception of a few which have been painted since the artist has been in Dixon, have been exhibited and have received favorable criticism. All are loaned for this exhibition and none of them are for sale.

On first view of the paintings, one notices bold lines, large masses of rich coloring, and especially interesting studies in composition. It is quite obvious that his portraits are not those of beautiful women, but have in them character and something deeper which any painting must have to be lasting. One enjoys the soft earth red in the landscapes and the pattern and composition of the still life.

A few comments on some of the paintings may be of interest. The numbers are those under which they are cataloged for the exhibition.

Number one, "The Woman at the Window," was exhibited at the Seligman Galleries in Paris and was given much favorable comment for its composition in the Chicago Evening Post Magazine.

Number seven, "The Lemon and the Vase," was considered by Mahonri Young, noted sculptor and critic in the "Paris Times," the most important composition in still life in Mr. Messer's Paris exhibition, and is an interesting study in pattern.

Number twenty-nine, "The Girl in the Green Dress," a vivid portrait, was exhibited in the Independent Society group at the Waldorf in 1926.

Number thirty-three, "Head of a Woman," was selected by the New York jury for the Pan-American Exhibition in the Los Angeles Museum in 1925. The purpose of this exhibition was to show the work of the painters in North and South America, Mexico and Central America. This picture later toured South America with the exhibition.

Number thirty-two, "Still Life," was exhibited in the Salons of America in New York and was favorably criticized in the "New Yorker." Number fourteen, "Apples," an interesting still life, was exhibited in the Salon des Artistes Francaises.

Number six, "Flowers in a Bowl," perhaps one of the most attractive still life paintings, is described in "Arts and Industries" of Paris as having very "enticing coloring."

"The Bathers" is another interesting composition which was exhibited in the Salon d'Automne in Paris. The paintings in this exhibition are both subdued and colorful, modern and very definite. One looks in vain for the ordinary landscape or dainty vase of pretty flowers, but one sees instead vigor and vitality.

The exhibition is open to the public Tuesday evening, Wednesday afternoon, Thursday afternoon and evening.

MISS O'BRIEN ABLE TO TAKE UP WORK AGAIN—

Miss E. Marie O'Brien will be in Dixon next Tuesday to take up her work with her music pupils here and in this community, after an interval of six months or more. Miss O'Brien fell and had the misfortune to break her hip, and was in Grant Hospital from Sept. 21st to Jan. 5th. Her many friends in Dixon will be happy to know she is well and able to take up her work again.

TO DRIVE TO DELAWARE, WIS.—

Dr. and Mrs. Wilard Thompson and son Woody are driving to Delaware, Wis., to St. John's Military Academy, where Dwight Thompson is a cadet. He will accompany his parents and brother to Dixon to spend the week end at his home.

WOMAN COLLECTOR HAS 1,255 PITCHERS—

El Dorado, Kas.—(AP)—A pitcher Mrs. A. C. Spain received as a Christmas gift 16 years ago and placed on a shelf beside another that had been in her family for a century inspired a collection of pitchers which now numbers 1,255 and is valued at more than $5,000.

Each pitcher is distinctive in its history, ware, age, origin or pattern. Novelties are practically excluded. Mrs. Spain says her quest for unique pitchers never will end and her collection never will be for sale.

A friend recently brought her 28 pitchers from abroad and Mrs. Spain received 37 as Christmas gifts. There are pitchers for every state except Vermont and from every foreign country. Some are ageless heirlooms and a few were patented less than a year ago. One was whittled from an apple tree bough and another is of horseshair.

Women Outnumber Men Arts-Science

Urbana, Ill., March 14—(AP)—Women outnumber the men in but one school, that of liberal arts and sciences, at the University of Illinois, this school season. A total of 3,216 women students and 2,117 men are registered in the L. A. and S. college, but of the 13,183 students registered in the Urbana and Chicago departments of the University. Of the total enrollment, 10,156 are men and 4,027 women. The college of liberal arts and sciences leads the enrollment, with the college of commerce second with 1,946 students. Sixty-six women are included in the 1,434 enrolled in the colleges of medicine.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—

To get a delicious brown pot roast, wash the meat in cold water, put it in a good hot pot on top of the stove, turn frequently with a big fork until it is brown on all sides. Then when well browned, put a very little boiling water into the pot, cover, and let it cook slowly. Add water as needed, a little at a time, and keep covered. The first fifteen minutes of turning and browning before the water is added seals the juices inside, makes a delicious crust and even determines the tenderness of the roast.

SOUTHERN TOUCH

Southerners have a way of tucking the last pinch of garlic, about the size of a pea, way inside roasts they are cooking. This gives an indefinable "different" taste that is delicious. More garlic would spoil the deliciousness of the appeal.

OLD LAMPS

If you have one of those old coal oil lamps that had pink pears, or a bunch of apples or flowers on it in color, have it wired for electricity and put it in your bedroom or sitting room. They are very good now and are far more cheery looking than many modernistic ones. Having one fixed for one's mother, aunt or grandmother's birthday would be a nice thing for her. It would shed memories as well as light.

CHILD MARKETERS

Parents who take the trouble to take their children marketing with them Saturday mornings for fresh fruits and vegetables can give their youngsters an education in itself. The attractive fresh fruits and the interesting looking vegetables not only increase their interest in things that are good for them but can be the starting point for instructing little bits of information about far away lands that children will remember.

SHELF COVERING

With spring around the corner, why not rush the season by putting color on the pantry shelves? New modernistic oilcloth strips come in live shades, very inexpensively, and are charming for pantry shelves, and likewise for the bathroom or closet shelves.

SMOOTH CAKES

Little cakes ice more smoothly if you glaze them over with white of egg before applying the icing. Let the egg harden before icing.

WASTE BASKETS

The wise housekeeper has a waste basket for every room, including the kitchen and bath. One very good chore to assign a small son or daughter is to empty the waste baskets each morning before school. This instills the idea of just why those baskets are put there.

HEROES AND REWARDS.

For some reason, known doubtless to its august self, the United States Senate recently refused to approve a pension of $125 a month to Mrs. Mary Goldberger, the widow of Dr. Joseph Goldberger.

This reflects no credit on the Senate; and the fact that most of us, reading about it, at once ask, "And who was Dr. Joseph Goldberger?" doesn't reflect any credit on us, either.

A country seldom honors its real heroes. It builds statues and monuments enough, Heaven knows, and passes all manner of resolutions. There is a newspaper variety of fame, which gives ball players and pugilists and actresses great eminence and makes their names household words; but the men who have been really important—the men who have actually done things that should make their countrymen call them blessed—are too often ignored completely.

Dr. Goldberger came out of New York's east side in 1914 to go south and fight pellagra—the mysterious, dreadful malady that was locally called "Red Fire," and that was taking lives at the rate of 1500 in the state of Mississippi alone.

No one knew much about it. Poverty-stricken mill hands and farm workers in the south were its chief victims; these, and the luckless inmates of orphan asylums, insane asylums and poor farms. It spread mysteriously. Whole families, whole villages, would be stricken. It was a loathsome, painful, deadly disease.

At times an unfortunate family, seized by the disease, would be the victims of an impromptu quarantine. Neighbors with shotguns would patrol the roads and keep them from leaving their own premises. The misery and suffering caused by the malady were almost incredible.

Dr. Goldberger devoted his life to fighting this scourge. He eventually discovered that what he had long suspected was true; that pellagra was not caused by germs, and was not in any way contagious, but was due simply to faulty diet.

The "poor whites" whose diet was limited to cornmeal mush, hominy, salt pork and cane molasses were getting the disease at their own dinner tables. He went into hospitals and fed the sufferers milk, eggs and red meat—and saw them cured. He got a dozen convicts in Mississippi to volunteer for experiments; he gave them the disease by restricting their food to corn bread, molasses, salt pork, rice and sweet potatoes; then he cured them by changing their diet.

Lastly, he inoculated himself, repeatedly, with the blood of pellagra sufferers. It had not the slightest effect. Thereby he proved definitely that pellagra was not "catching," and that it could infallibly be wiped out by certain dietary changes. He freed the south from the curse of the "Red Fire." Thousands upon thousands of people were given happy, healthful lives by his work.

Of course, we have forgotten him. If Dr. Goldberger had killed a few thousand people in a war he would have plenty of statues, his widow would have a pension and his name would be in every school book. But he saved lives, instead; and the Senate of the world's richest nation can't pay his widow a paltry $125 a month.

"My kingdom for a horse" is an immortal line, but if Shakespeare had been writing in Michigan he probably would have had the gentleman say something like "My life for a pint!"

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNECK

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

Three Tynymites, far under ground, were hoping Clowny could be found. They'd dropped down through a deep-sunk shaft, and now were in the dark. Said Clowny, "Well, I hope that we can shortly set poor Clowny free. No doubt, if he is safe, he thinks this all is quite a lark."

"But we are all scared when we get out. The air is getting stuffy and it's feeling rather hot. This is a real mine, I'll just bet. I've never seen so much coal yet. Let's start to move around a bit. To stand still's 'tommy rot.'"

"You're right," said Carpy with a sigh. "If Clowny's really right near by, it's up to us to find him, so we can't just idly stand. You see, he may be in a trap, or else just taking quite a nap. We never will find out until this whole big cave is scanned."

So, off they started, by some walls, imagining they heard queer calls.

(Clowny is still lost in the next story.)

MY THIRTY YEARS AT SEA

By Capt. George Fried

Radio has played an important role in Fried's rescue of 57 men in sea disasters so he naturally considers wireless one of a sailor's greatest assets. He foresees regular ocean flying boats largely because of the reliability of radio direction finders and tells how the modern traveler is kept advised of current events through the air.

BY CAPT. GEORGE FRIED
(Copyright, 1929, Associated Press)

HAVING had two experiences in rescuing 57 men from foundering ships in mid-Atlantic during severe storms and using the radio day after day while at sea for the navigation of my ship and communicating with the outside world, I naturally would consider wireless one of the sailor's greatest assets. It is the same medium that provides entertainment for you in your home almost any hour of the day, that is employed to safeguard the lives of millions at sea at all times during storms and fog.

Radio as a science is still in its infancy, but considering how it has been developed it is beyond human comprehension what we can expect.

Without the aid of the radio compass it would have been impossible for me to locate either the British freighter Antioch or the Italian freighter Florida. I do not believe it is very far off when radio beams will be established at various points so that a vessel in any kind of weather will be able to get her exact position, thereby preventing the possibility of a collision in a fog with another ship.

Several radio beacons are already in operation along the coast of the United States and I think that foreign governments will erect stations at other points. Greenland should have a radio beacon as well as the Azores, with additional ones along the Atlantic coast in this country as well as along the European coast. With every ship in the Atlantic equipped with wireless to take bearings, navigators will virtually do away with determining their locations throughout observation from celestial bodies. It is only a matter of time before every ship will also be equipped with short range radio beacons as an additional precaution against colliding with each other in unfavorable weather. At the present time stations send out radio beams along the American coast day and night. Vessels with radio compasses can pick up these stations and accurately obtain their fixed position by planning on a chart the direction of the beams. The position of the vessel on the chart is at the intersection of two or more of those lines.

When I went to the assistance of the Antioch, the master gave me his position at the time he sent the SOS. As I proceeded to that spot, I found that he had drifted. The radio compass on the President Roosevelt indicated that he was 50 miles away from the given position, so I changed my course and found him. The Florida was also off her position, being 150 miles away.

Rarely ever do I make a voyage that I do not use the radio compass in the safe and practical navigation of the ship. When trans-Atlantic liners run on a regular schedule with the promptness of railroad trains the radio compass is one of the most indispensable instruments. I firmly believe that the maritime law should compel every ship not only to carry a radio compass but to have three operators aboard ship while at sea so that a man is at the key day and night on a regular eight hour watch. Several airplanes have already successfully negotiated the Atlantic. Aviation is also making rapid strides and some day it will not be uncommon to have a regular trans-Atlantic air service. These planes, carrying radio equipment, will find these radio beacons established for ships of great value in their navigation. But a good deal of study must yet be given to upper air currents before trans-Atlantic aviation will reach a degree of safety.

I think that airplanes will prove more practical in use across the ocean than dirigibles, because the former are faster and when sufficiently developed, will probably suffer less in a storm than a zeppelin. Storms will always be a hazard, just as they are now. Nature's elements have wrought havoc with the staunchest of ships and probably always will, so that only planes of sturdy construction will be in use. There are many other factors to be considered, however, and the day of a regular trans-Atlantic plane service, even as a supplementary steamship service, is still some distance away, in my opinion.

A steamship at sea is a small world in itself. In the old days vessels crossed the ocean and the officers, crew and passengers never had a word only when they reached a port that they knew what was in the news. Today, radio brings crew and passengers into communication with their relatives and friends during any part of the voyage in any part of the world. News dispatches are received every night. On the larger passenger liners these news items are printed in the daily paper, which is at the breakfast table. Stock quotations of the chief issues dealt in on the New York Stock Exchange also are quoted. On some voyages we carry bankers, brokers and traders. They can ask for a quotation on a stock and in a few minutes the answer is received and within another few minutes, if they feel so inclined, an order to buy or sell can be put through.

State Carries Gas Tax Refund Cases to Supreme Court

Springfield, Ill., Mar. 14—(AP)—Briefs and arguments were filed today on behalf of the state in the cases involving refund of money collected by the state under the unconstitutional gasoline tax law.

These cases were appealed from judgment of the Sangamon Circuit Court, where decisions mostly favorable to the state were rendered. The mere fact that the motor fuel tax was unconstitutional, the state contends, was not sufficient to authorize an action to recover the amount paid. Before a taxpayer can recover, he must show that he paid under duress and compulsion.

Not satisfied with the partial victory in the Circuit Court, the state further asks for reversal of that part of the Circuit Court ruling in favor of the oil companies, which would refund the oil companies the monies paid during the last month the tax was operative.

An appeal from the Circuit Court of Will County was filed today in the case of Fred W. Smith and others, against Margaret N. Smith. This was a bill for specific performance filed by Fred Smith; and other surviving children of James Smith, and involved the construction of an agreement signed by James Smith. It represents a fight for Smith's property between his surviving children by a first wife, and his second wife, Margaret, who lost her case in the Will county court. Business property in Joliet is involved.

A MODERN WONDER

Middlesex Borough, N. J.—Taxes mean nothing in the lives of some 7,000 citizens of this commonwealth. It's because they don't have to pay 'em. No direct tax has been levied for several years and the administration has decided that receipts from other sources, totalling $22,000, will more than cover operating expenses during the current year.

Colloquial and slang terms constitute one of the largest groups of new words coming into use today.

CONNIE WILL TRY AGAIN WITH BUT FEW NEW ARTISTS

Veteran Manager Hopes to Grab Pennant in American League

BY BRIAN BELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
Fort Myers, Fla., Mar. 15—(AP)—Connie Mack, active and cheerful in spite of nearly half a century in baseball, will attempt to win an American League pennant for Philadelphia with practically the same players who failed by a narrow margin last year.
Manager Mack will rearrange his men to some extent but no new faces will appear in the regular line up. Every indication, however, points to one new pitcher and if the young man has a curve ball Athletic fans will see a great deal of him.
This promising recruit, Bill Breckenridge, late of Portsmouth, may be the only player who will have to be introduced at Shibe Park.
"Breck" as he is affectionately addressed, whips his fast one through with easy control and for a young man short of his majority, displays extraordinary coolness on the mound.
Foxes On First Base
Assignment of Jimmy Fox, to first base will cause a revision of the infield plans. Max Bishop would have been renominated at second base without opposition but he showed a disinclination to sign. He may get so far behind in training that he will not be able to catch up. In such an event Jimmy Dykes, who plays anywhere he finds himself, will play second with Joe Boley at short and Sammy Hale at third. If Bishop gets in at second, Dykes still may get a chance at a regular job by forcing Hale from third base to a utility status. Joe Hassler and Eddie Collins again will stand by for infield emergencies. Nick Borelli, the Muhlenberg athlete, needs more experience.
The outfield of last season's close has been brought over intact, with Albert Simmons, George Haas and Bing Miller in undisputed possession of the field. Homer Summa, former Cleveland outfielder, will be a reserve assisted by Ossie Orwoll, who was a pitcher last year and first baseman this spring. As a first sacker he is said to have resembled a good outfielder or left handed pitcher. Nedman Hume, Southern Methodist University football player, and John Scott, Mercer University product and protege of the Fort Myers Kiwanis Club are not yet ready. Mickey Cochran, the most valuable player in the American League by official verdict, will do the bulk of the catching but Cy Perkins is available as first aid.

Bob Grove, George Walberg, Howard Ehman, John Quinn, Eddie Rommel and George Earnshaw will be the chief dependence in the pitching department with Breckenridge, Stewart Bowen, Carroll Yerkes and Bill Shores available for relief roles. If Breckenridge's curve passes all the tests, he may become a starter.

Winner of Thompson- Fields Go Champion

Chicago, March 15—(AP)—The National Boxing Association will recognize the winner of the Jackie Fields-Young Thompson fight, scheduled for the Chicago Coliseum March 25, as the world's welterweight champion.
Joe Dundee of Baltimore, the present titleholder, has been given until March 21 to defend his crown by the association, but he has no title match booked and will not fight before that date.
Thompson, hard hitting Pacific Coast Negro, scored a two-round knockout over Dundee here last summer, but the title was not at stake as he was forced to enter the ring over the welterweight limit. Fields, a product of Chicago, won a 10 round decision over Thompson later at San Francisco.

Cardinals Trounced by Big Train's Team

Avon Park, Fla., March 15—(AP)—Billy Southworth's St. Louis Cardinals were soundly trounced at their home training park yesterday when Walter Johnson's Washington Senators put a 12 to 9 Indian mark on them.
Frankie Frisch made his 1929 bow as a pinch hitter in the seventh with a single. Of the six tossers used by Southworth, only Grover Alexander and the southpaw rookie, Heise, showed anything.

Root to Receive Call for Chi. Cubs Today

Los Angeles, Cal., March 15—(AP)—Charlie Root, ace of all Cub pitchers in 1927 and one of the big disappointments in 1928, was to receive his first real test of the season today.
Manager Joe McCarthy announced he would use Root against the Los Angeles club in the opening game of their 28 game schedule, beginning here today.

Hooks and Slides

TWO NICE FELLOWS
Walter Johnson and Billy Southworth are regarded by the major league ball players as two of the swiftest fellows in the business and because of their nice, easy-going dispositions a lot of experts think that neither will succeed as a major league manager.
Johnson is having his first trial as the manager of the Washington Senators and Southworth is making his debut as the manager of the St. Louis Cardinals.
Because of the affection that Washington has for Johnson his spot is much easier than the one into which Southworth has fallen. If Johnson fails to win a pennant there will be no dire penalty put on him. His Washington club doesn't stand as a pennant winner and even if Walter doesn't finish the club higher than it finished last year they will love him just the same in Washington.

JUST A TOUGH SPOT

But Southworth is in a much more critical position. He is assuming the management of a team that won a pennant last year and one that is given only a fair chance by the experts to win this year.
If the team doesn't finish in first place, off will go his head in the fall. They look off managerial leads in St. Louis as an annual fall function.
Bill McKechnie led the club into the world series last fall and his reward was a demotion to Rochester, where Southworth won an International League pennant last year. And if Southworth, doesn't finish ahead of the Cubs, the Giants and the Pirates this year he will be farmed out to one of the many rural clubs that the St. Louis men own.

HAVE NO WORRIES

Johnson does not admit that he is in a tough spot and neither does Southworth. They are smilers essentially. Johnson had a tough experience last year with Newark when three or four bad actors on the ball club took advantage of his nice disposition, but he says he has learned his lesson.
Southworth says he had no serious trouble with the Rochester club, but the ball players of the International League say his men worked on his easy disposition until he got hard with them.

SPOKEN LIKE A MAN
"That is not correct," Southworth said. "I didn't get hard with that ball club last year. I just asked them to play ball with me and I went out and played ball with them."
"I want to play the outfield every day with the Cardinals. If one of those other fellows don't beat me out of the job, I think a playing out of the club. I think we have a manager in the best. He can lead his men when he is on the field and he doesn't have to drive them. I have had experience under rough driving managers and I don't believe that it works."
"The average ball player in the major leagues is an intelligent, grown-up man and the younger fellows are smart fellows with good educations. You can't drive them. But you can show them."

CLUB WILL HUSTLE

"I know all the ball players on the St. Louis club and they know me. And there isn't a bad actor on the club," he added, using almost the identical words that Johnson used in talking about the men on his Washington club.
"Everyone told me," Southworth went on, "that I was falling into the hardest job in baseball when I accepted the promotion to St. Louis. Maybe it is a hard job. Any manager's job is not a cinch, but I took it. I am young and I have ambition. "Baseball is my business and the only place for a ball player to be is in the major leagues. The minor leagues, for a man who has been up in the big time, is just a place where you work for a salary. To the rookies, with ambition, it is different, of course.

"I don't know what success I will have with the club. Perhaps I should put it that I don't know what success we are going to have because I intend to make a 'We' proposition out of the club. I think we have a very good ball club. I don't know about the others. I didn't see them last year. But I know that any club with as many good men as we have can win if they hustle, and I know we are going to hustle."

Segrave Will Seek Motor Boat Honors

Daytona Beach, Fla., March 15—(AP)—Major H. O. D. Segrave, who earlier this week set a new world automobile speed record of 231 miles an hour, today set out for added laurels. He expected to leave here this morning for Miami, where he will compete with Car Wood for the title of "world motor boat king" in speed contests to be conducted in Biscayne Bay.
Prior to his departure Major Segrave announced his permanent retirement from the automobile racing field. He plans in the future to devote his energies to the cement business with motor boating as his favored hobby.

White Sox Move on to Fort Worth, Tex.

Fort Worth, Tex., March 15—(AP)—Boasting four straight exhibition victories over the Dallas Steers, the White Sox moved upon the Fort Worth Cats for a three-game series today.
Most of the White Sox are in good condition, except outfielder Johnny Mostil, whose infected toe is causing him some trouble.

Howley Decides Upon His Regular Infield

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 15—(AP)—The same infield manager Dan Howley expects to open the season for St. Louis Browns will get the call for the initial exhibition struggle tomorrow. It will be Lu Blue at first; O'Rourke, second; Kress at short and Grimes, third.
ANCIENT BEARD ERASER
Paris—What is claimed to be the oldest razor extant was recently discovered by M. Lharvent, a French archaeologist, in a sand quarry at Montiers-les-Amiens. It has a handle and blade similar to the modern razor and was found with other "tools" which have been traced back to about 6000 B. C.
In 1927 22,887 miles were flown by aircraft on regular commercial services throughout the world, compared with 1,170,000 miles in 1913.

Sec. Mellon Advises Bonds Investments

Washington, March 14—(AP)—Secretary Mellon, who also is chairman of the Federal Reserve Board which has endeavored to check the use of federal reserve credit in speculation, said today that despite the fact that many investors were putting their money into stocks now is a good time for prudent investors to buy industrial and government bonds.
He said that while there were good stock investments available, the prices of some stocks were too high, the prices of bonds were low, and interest rates on them high.
"Since the market on bonds is not particularly good now, there are not many new issues being put out," Secretary Mellon said. "In making forecast I would say that this is a good time for the prudent investor to buy bonds. This doesn't mean many stocks are not good buys. Some, however, are too high for sound investment. It is easier to pick out sound bonds than sound stocks."
Mr. Mellon said he did not feel that the fact that there was a good buyers' market for bonds would have any appreciable effect on speculation.

GOLD MINING IS AGAIN REVIVED IN GA. VILLAGE

Dying Industry is Given
New Life by Discovery of Metal

Dahlonega, Ga.—(AP)—They are digging for gold again in the hills around Dahlonega, scene of a famous rush early in the nineteenth century.

Men are swinging picks and shovels searching for the metal that lured 5,000 fortune seeking, frenzied miners over rugged mountain paths to this town, 16 miles from a railroad, when news of the big strike in 1829 went around the world.

Gold mining around Dahlonega has been lagging since the world war, when increased wages and operating costs cut into the profits.

The civil war resulted in the shutting down here of a branch of the United States mint in 1861, after it had coined 1,381,784 pieces, valued at $6,115,569, in its 24 years of operation. Dr. S. W. McCulloch, state geologist, says while the coinage of the mint was only slightly above $6,000,000, that the mountains around Dahlonega have produced at least $10,000,000 in gold. The mint was not established here until 1828 about 10 years after the first gold was found.

Two companies, operating 10 or more mines, have started operations here on a modest scale. There is not a word of a frenzy about Dahlonega.

ca's gold digging this time. Dr. McCulloch says he believes the mines can be made to pay if the work is carried on by trained geologists and mining engineers. He calls attention to the fact that the profits from the Dahlonega gold mines had greatly dwindled when the first gold was found in California in 1848.

Dahlonega residents do not anticipate a new gold rush. William Benjamin Franklin Townsend, quaint old editor of the town's weekly newspaper, The Nugget, says he believes there is gold in the mountains "if you know where and how to find it."

When the government abandoned the Dahlonega mint the buildings and grounds were given to the state by the North Georgia Agricultural College. A number of buildings, reminiscent of gold mining boom days, still stand, including a huge mill building, with 120 stamping machines—the remains of an unsuccessful venture, for which several millions in stock was sold in various parts of the country.

Dahlonega once a community of 7,000 residents, now has about 800. Now they are hopeful that some day the mines will thrive again, for the picks are swinging in the town the Indians called Tan-lau-ne-ke (yellow money).

Business Men of Herrin in Politics

Herrin, Ill., March 14—(AP)—Following Tuesday's municipal primary in which there were no previously announced candidates for mayor and in which fewer than 100 votes out of a normal voting strength of 4,000 were cast, a "People's Ticket" was adopted at a caucus last night to Herrin citizens. A full slate of candidates for city offices in the April election was adopted, including Aldermen John Green who was named as a mayoralty candidate in Tuesday's primary.

It was announced following the caucus that advancing the slate of candidates is an effort of Herrin business men to gain control of the city's politics.

Files Suit in High Court to Collect Note

Springfield, Ill., Mar. 14—(AP)—Recalling the trial of the three Shelton brothers, southern Illinois gangsters, on a charge of the attempted holdup of a Christian county bank in 1924, a petition for a writ of certiorari was filed in the Supreme Court by Attorney R. J. Sullivan today seeking to recover judgment on a note for defending one of the defendants in the case.

Sullivan was retained to defend Edward Nicholson of Joliet, indicted with the Shelton brothers.

He obtained a note for $10,000 from Nicholson's parents, John J. and Celea Nicholson, on the assumption that the Sheltons would be convicted and would have to appeal to the Supreme Court, and that the costs would approximate that amount for all the litigation. The note was intended as "security," Sullivan to set the attorney fees later.

Subsequently, the indictment was nolle as to Edward Nicholson, and his parents had made payment to Sullivan of approximately $4,000. Then Sullivan secured judgment by confession for the remainder of the note, $6,427.33. Claiming they had no notice of the judgment until served by the Sheriff of Will county with a copy of the execution, the Nicholson asked the Sangamon Circuit court to allow them to plead. This was denied, and they appealed to the Appellate Court, which reversed the Circuit Court ruling refusing them permission to "state their case. Sullivan brings the appeal to the Supreme Court for a reversal of the appellate court ruling.

To Indict Mexican for Murder of Wife

St. Louis, March 14—(AP)—Authorities announced today that the St. Louis county grand jury Monday would take up an investigation into the death of Mrs. Ella Brady Espinosa, 37, of East Chicago, Ind., who disappeared here last September while on a honeymoon trip with her 19-year-old Mexican husband, Rudolph Espinosa.

The skeleton of a woman found Sunday beside a road near the city has been identified by her children and by means of a dental plate as that of Mrs. Espinosa. The skeleton has been sent to East Chicago for burial. Because of its condition, Coroner O'Connell has been unable to determine the cause of death. Police said, however, that they believed the skull had been crushed.

No trace has been found of Espinosa since the disappearance of his bride, whose car was found abandoned in St. Louis five days after they started on their honeymoon to Del Rio, Tex.

Severe Snow Storm in Rocky Mountains

Denver, March 14—(AP)—The snow storm which has claimed one life, paralyzed highway traffic and delayed trains and the air mail in the Rocky Mountain region, continued in Wyoming today, although it had subsided in Colorado and Montana.

A dozen towns in Wyoming where the storm was most severe, were snowbound by the heaviest fall in several years. Sheridan, near the Wyoming-Montana boundary, reported that a three-day snowfall left a blanket 30 inches deep on level ground. The remainder of the state was covered by 20 to 24 inches.

Kill Wolf After Hunt Lasting Four Months

Phoenix, Ariz.—(AP)—Four months pursuit of a 10-year old wolf whose depredations were international in scope has been rewarded by his death.

The predatory creature included in his range southeastern Arizona, New Mexico and Mexico. He was credited with having slain thousands of dollars worth of stock.

Last September, M. E. Musgrave, director of the government's fight against destructive animals dispatched Deputy Al Fields into the district with instructions to stay there until the wolf was killed. Every path the animal was known to have used was blocked with traps and fields established a permanent camp in the territory. After a wait of four months the hunt was terminated when the wolf returned to Arizona and was trapped.

That the animal was a good judge of beef was disclosed by the records which indicated 70 per cent of his kills were fat, yearling heifers cut out from the herd and hamstringed.

REAL CHARITY

Creal Springs, Ill.—"And the greatest of these is Charity." When the century-old log cabin owned by Mrs. Margaret Parks, widowed mother of five children, was destroyed by fire, she attended the funeral of her mother shortly after the fire, 100 of her neighbors gathered together, built her a home, completely furnished it and canvassed the neighborhood for foodstuffs to stock the larder.

Such greasy hands!
Hard water won't clean them

Hard water can't do much with greasy hands. Of course, you use lots of soap. You try to get a thick lather. But the water is too hard; it combines with the soap and forms a scum. How can you expect to clean greasy hands in that water?

There is a way. Use Melo. Sprinkle a little in the basin. Water softened with Melo makes a wonderful cleaner, with or without soap. Soft water and soap and lots of lather; grease won't stay long on your hands. Get a can of Melo at your grocer's today.

News of the Churches

Lenten Thoughts

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

Editor of The Congregationalist

Love is the deepest thing in human life and the highest thing in Christian fellowship. But love is vague and formless until it finds expression; and its most effective expressions are in sacrifice and service.

Sacrifice and service, through the eyes of love, enlarge and intensify our vision so that we are able to see things in our fellow men that we had never seen before. There is a very effective illustration of this in the experience of that young American university man who enlisted as a private in a London regiment in the early stages of the late war. It was a cockney regiment, recruited from that many would have regarded as the raffish, or at least as the very common element of a great city.

The cultured university man felt at first a feeling of deep repulsion for his new environment and companions. His first thought was, "How can I live with them?" But sharing their common life and their discomfort and danger in the trenches, he discovered those deeper bonds that unite men in spite of all their outward differences, when they are face to face with great tasks and responsibilities.

When, a little later, his father died and he was called home to America and released from service, he told how his first thought of these soldier companions who had at first repulsed him was, "How can I live without them?"

Would not many of us develop precisely that experience, even toward many who seem the unloved and the unlovely, if we could once get beyond the superficial barriers and meet all men upon the basis of human need and human responsibility and human love? It was in such a way that Jesus met men, and it is only in that atmosphere that we can understand the meaning of Divine love.

Plans to Paddle Across Channel

He'll Dare Atlantic in This Tiny Boat

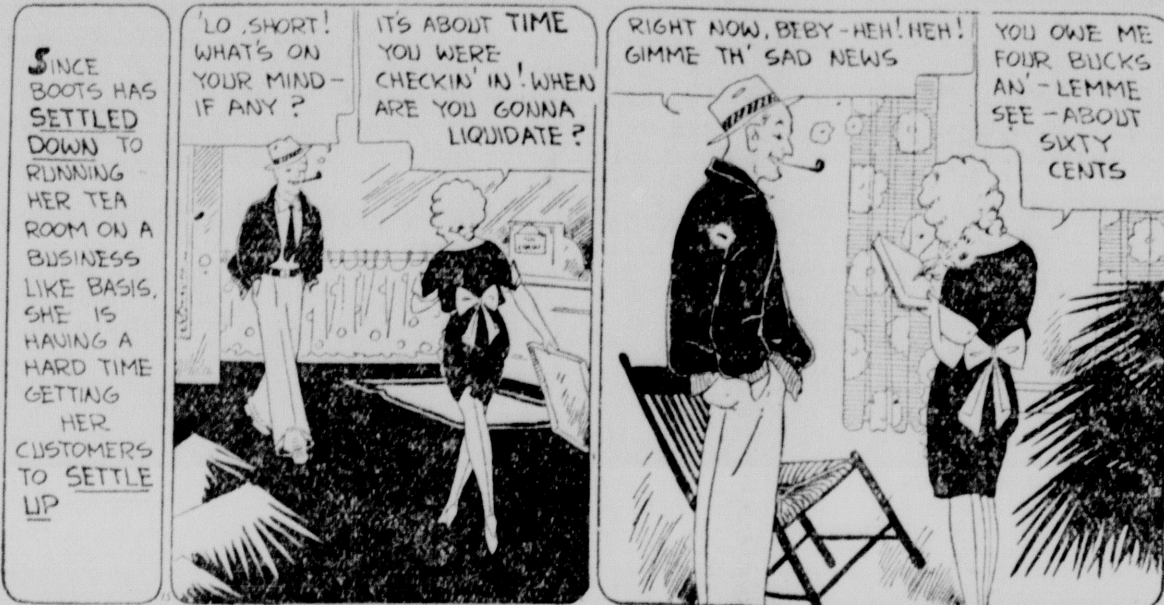

The strange craft pictured here isn't built exactly on the lines of a trans-Atlantic ship, but that's what Captain Leonard Greene, upper right, intends it to be. In this 17-foot collapsible sailboat, the Cambridge, Mass., adventurer expects to paddle and sail up the coast from Miami, Fla., to St. Johns, New Brunswick, and then cross the ocean to Europe. Captain Greene believes he will reach St. Johns by the middle of June and will begin his trans-Atlantic voyage as soon as the weather is favorable. The little boat, christened the Sailfish, is practically non-capsizable. Another attempt, by Captain Roemer, to cross the Atlantic from the east in a similar craft ended in the loss of the boat and navigator during a hurricane.

DISTRIBUTION OF FACTORIES SEEN AS FARMERS' AID

President of Manufacturers' Assn. Addresses
Utilities Meeting

Springfield, Ill., March 15.—(AP)—Widespread distribution of factories, made possible by an inexhaustible supply of electrical energy, will go a long way toward solving the agricultural problem. James D. Cunningham, president of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association, today told delegates to three Illinois utility conventions.

The Illinois State Electric Association, Illinois Gas Association and Illinois Electric Railway Association are holding their annual meetings here this week.

"Decentralization of industry," Mr. Cunningham said, "will bring the factory to the farming regions, lessening the cost of transportation of raw materials available at the factory door, or at most, a short motor trip. New manufacturing processes will develop more readily from the close relationship between farm and factory, as has lately attracted much attention by reason of commodities, such as paper, insulating board and artificial silk being made from corn stalks."

Presence of factories will also tend to lessen the burden of taxes on the farmer by helping to absorb the various costs necessary in the community, he pointed out.

"Seventy-five per cent of the manufacturing industry of this country depends on the utility companies for their existence," Mr. Cunningham said. "Every morning 8,384,261 factory workmen assemble and by pushing a few buttons start in motion the machinery that produces over $62,714,000,000 worth of goods annually."

"Generation of electricity in this country has increased 615 per cent since 1912, twenty times that of population. Our people use as much electrical energy as the rest of the world combined. The generating capacity is four and one-half times the capacity of any other nation. Three-fourths of all the factories in this country are electrified as compared with 66 per cent in Germany and 48 per cent in England."

"An inexhaustible supply of energy has made industry completely independent so far as location is concerned. No longer can the real estate magnate, with only a few choice factory sites, compel the factory manager to pay prohibitive prices for property. No longer is it necessary to locate in a highly restricted factory district where taxes and special assessments eat into profits. The factory manager practically has his choice of the entire United States. He can locate in city, village, town or hamlet, and as far as his power requirements are concerned, will be served equally well. This one fact alone has relieved tremendously the high congested areas of metropolitan districts.

"Chicago, New York, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Philadelphia, St. Louis, and other industrial centers, were massed about the steam-driven machinery of the nineteenth century. The tendency now is to decentralize industry, to spread out and take advantage of more favorable conditions of light and air, and transportation in less congested centers. Another reason for leaving these areas is found in the increasing burden of expense for the manufacture in districts such as Chicago."

"Burdens in the form of taxation and license fees based upon the number of employees, due to a short-sighted policy on the part of municipal authorities, are driving manufacturers from Chicago to smaller communities where factories are more appreciated and more vitally needed. Factories and their payrolls make prosperous communities, and the smaller localities appreciate this fundamental economic truth more keenly than the larger cities, which frequently try to milk the industries dry. Sometimes it is the neighbors who try to drive plants out of a city on account of odors, noise or smoke, forgetting that without factories, a city would ultimately die or 'dry rot.'"

Mr. Cunningham gave statistics from the 1928 Year book of the Central Illinois Public Service company, showing that thirty-two new industries had been established in twenty-five cities during that year. In 1928 the industrial power consumption in the territory supplied by this company increased 281 per cent over 1927. Some of the cities where industries were located were Canton, Pana, Marshall, Grayville, Carbondale, Bushnell and Mattoon.

GAP GROVE

Gap Grove—The Prairieville Social Circle met in the parlors of the Prairieville church Wednesday. As this is the first meeting of the society since early in November, owing to so much sickness in the families of the members, also the almost unpassable condition of the roads, there was a great deal of business to be transacted. The new officers are as follows: President—Mrs. Lillian Harms; Vice President—Mrs. Bertha Friedericks; Secretary—Mrs. Ruth Harms; Treasurer—Mrs. Geraldine Strock. The former president, Mrs. A. M. Seavey, is very thankful for the hearty cooperation accorded her during her incumbency in office, especially during the time of the supper from which nearly one hundred dollars was cleared, fifty dollars of which is donated to the Prairieville church to help defray expenses. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Alfred Strock. A good attendance is desired.

Clarence Weimken, who was sick again, has recovered and has gone to live with his cousin living near Lyndon.

Mrs. Leo Rorper's sister and her husband drove out from Chicago to visit relatives and friends in this vicinity.

The Reynoldswoods sale of purebred Jerseys was well attended and prices realized were high, the top for cows being more than $300; a calf, but a few days old, bringing $70. These prices are somewhat higher than Lloyd Johnson realized; his high cow bringing not quite $200. Doesn't this prove that it pays to raise purebreds and keep a record of their production?

Harry Friedericks is confined to bed with an attack of lumbago. Henry Taylor is doing his chores for him.

Claude J. Sweitzer and B. Frank Hoover attended a meeting of the Lee county branch of the Federal Farm Loan Association last Monday evening. L. S. Griffith, the secretary-treasurer of our association reported of $2,000,000 of loans.

William Meppen is helping to build the new Catholic church in North Dixon.

Leo Royer and Wm. "Billy" Null accepted an invitation from the Dixon Implement Co. to be their guests on a trip to Chicago Tuesday. The boys report a very enjoyable and profitable trip. There were 260 guests in the party.

J. E. Eateringer is papering the house recently vacated by John Covell, known as the "Red" Eateringer house.

W. L. Rushka is not so well again, having had to call the doctor recently.

The rain Tuesday night and Wednesday morning seems to have taken the remainder of the frost from the ground which is now settling nicely.

Edna Sweitzer who has been confined to bed at various times during the school year, submitted to a thorough examination. The diagnosis revealed an affected appendix. An operation was recommended for relief, which, when performed, disclosed not so much an abnormal condition of the appendix as an adhesion which is supposed to have been the cause of all the trouble. She rallied from the anaesthetic and is doing as well as could be expected.

The ice and snow have gone with very little of the water running away, most of it must have gone into the ground.

The Prairieville P. T. A. meeting was held last Thursday evening instead of the 14th as previously announced.

Elwood Lenox, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lenox, is under the care of a physician. He has stomach trouble and a bad cold.

Fred Brauer is coned to the house with a threatened attack of flu.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lenon will soon occupy the William Stevens house recently vacated by Fred Piper.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Ocker returned from a vacation through some of the south-western states and report a very enjoyable outing. Mr. Ocker for whose health the trip was taken, is now attending to his work in his meat market in Polo.

Mrs. J. C. Eateringer, who was confined to bed a week with gall stones, has almost completely recovered.

Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Taylor and daughter, Miss Cora, spent Sunday afternoon with our former townspeople, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Snyder and family, east of Rock Falls.

Abstinence Campaign for American Youth

Evanston, Ill.—(AP)—The Women's Christian Temperance union in outlining a national abstinence campaign among American youth, declared President Hoover, as a child, was a member of the Loyal Temperance legion, or Bend of Hope, a juvenile temperance organization, sponsored by the W. C. T. U.

"It should be recalled," the announcement read, "that Herbert Hoover's mother was a member of the Iowa W. C. T. U. and in conversation with members of the organization, Mr. Hoover recalled going to the polls with his mother who stood all of one election day electioneering for a vote on a prohibition question."

The W. C. T. U. campaign to list youthful abstainers from alcohol commenced on the day Hoover was inaugurated and is directed by Miss Winona R. Jewell. On March 4, 1923, the list of signers will be presented to President Hoover.

Bridge for a Dime But Must Move It

Houston, Tex.—(AP)—Roderick J. Watts, a reporter, owns a 100,000-pound bridge that cost him a dime. The bridge, spanning Buffalo bay, was in an exclusive residential district, hasn't been used since 1920. Watts decided it should be removed. City commissioners would make no promise, so Watts in a rash moment offered Mayor Oscar F. Holcombe 10 cents for the structure. The mayor accepted.

Watts has gone into a huddle with junk dealers—for with his title went the stipulation that the bridge must be removed in 90 days.

Arraign Defendants in Peoria Booze Case

Peoria, Ill., Mar. 14.—(AP)—Five men and two women, indicted by the grand jury yesterday, were to be arraigned in circuit court today on murder charges growing out of the death of almost a score of persons from poison liquor distributed in Peoria and neighboring towns two weeks ago.

Six of the 17 indictments were against Morris Mansfield, alleged wholesale bootlegger. Others who were to be arraigned today were Mansfield's wife, Jesse, Mrs. Nina Guffin, C. O. Guffin, Louis Sels, Walter Niebert and Herman Wohlfarth.
